TERRITORIAL NEWS.

Yuma county is in debt $57,669 31.

The Citizen has been removed from Florence to Tucson.

Work has been commenced on the Vulture mine by the new owners.

David Neahr, of Yuma, has been offered $150,000 for his Picacho mines.

More rain has fallen in Yavapai county during the last month than for two years preceding.

The Peck mine is still holding out. The main shaft is 200 feet below the north tunnel, and in splendid ore. Pay days are regular.

Prescott parties have purchased 800,000 pounds of wheat in Salt River valley. It will be ground into flour in East Phoenix, and shipped northward.

The Senator mill, in Hassayampa District, has again commenced running on gold ore from the mine of that name. The property is in new hands, and the prospects for a successful run are good.

Mr. Draugh is the successful bidder for the mail contract between Prescott and Santa Fe, N. M., service three times a week. The price is $13,313; present cost, $42,033. Arizona is to be cursed with another rawhide mail outfit.

The Tucson Star wants no more feasts in that ancient town. It says: It brings nothing but crime and murder; it is an attraction for every thief and murderer that infests our country and Sonora; it is a gambling hell without limit, and no good can come of it.

On the night of the 2d inst., the westward bound stage was stopped by road agents 20 miles west of Maricopa Wells. They took the treasure box, three bars of bullion, and the mail. They also took the stage stock, compelling the passengers and driver to walk back to the Wells.

On the night of the 4th inst., while Marshal Butler of Tucson was sitting in his residence, with a light burning and door open, a Mexican rode up, dismounted at the door, and fired two shots at the Marshal, neither of which did any damage. The assassin then mounted his horse and escaped.

The Prescott Miner, of August 28th, says rich placer mines have been discovered in the Santa Maria section, and considerable excitement prevails over the discovery of the new diggings. A mammoth gold ledge has been discovered about 25 miles north of the McCracken mine, which can be easily traced four miles, the croppings of which show plenty of free gold. The McCracken mill still pounds away on good ore, which keeps the camp alive.

Capt. J. H. Adams, ex-Sheriff of Santa Clara county, Cal., and Mr. Cor Finley, ex-Clerk of the same county, were killed on the 2d inst., while traveling from the Patagonia District to Tucson. It is believed that six Mexicans were the murderers. They were trailed some distance, but recent rains had washed out all tracks. It was during Capt. Adams term of office that the famous Vasquez band of desperadoes was broken up, and their leader hung.

The following contracts for flour have been awarded by Capt. Chas. P. Egan, C. C. S., under his advertisement of June 10, 1878: Camp McDowell, to C. T. Hayden, at $3 38 per 100 pounds; Camp Verde, to C. T. Hayden, at $4 97; Fort Whipple, to C. T. Hayden, at $4 97; Camp Grant, to S. Katzenstein, at $7 25; Camp Huachuca, to S. Katzenstein, at $6 99; Camp Thomas, to Chas. Lesinsky, at $6 10; Camp Bowie, to Chas. Lesinsky, at $5 47.

The Yuma Sentinel of the 7th, says: Articles of incorporation, under the general law of the Territory, of the Southern Pacific Railroad, will soon be filed in Yuma county. The incorporators are D. D. Colton, Chas. F. Crocker, A. P. K. Safford, Chas. Hudson and David Neahr. They propose to build a railroad and telegraph line, commencing at Yuma and thence eastward, following the 32d parallel, to the eastern boundary of the Territory. Safford says the road will be completed to Maricopa Wells within six months, and to Tucson in a year.

The famous Cababi mine, in Pima county, that was worked years ago until flooded with water is reported to have been bonded to Ex-Gov. Safford and a party of Philadelphia capitalists. Some months ago a contract was made with W. N. Leete to deed him one-third of the property if he would drain the mine and so repair its openings that work could be resumed. He claims to have done this. Assays from the bottom of the old works are $1,940 and $2,000 in silver and $12 50 in gold. When the mine was worked by Mexicans Cababi was a lively camp—bull fights, horse races and fandangoes every day, and money for everybody.

STAGE ROBBER KILLED.

Brazleton, the New Mexico and Arizona Terror, Sent to His Long Home.

From the Tucson Star, August 23d.

The great alarm of the people over the recent numerous stage robberies has been increasing from day to day since the last robbery, until the subject was discussed in every circle. During all this excitement Sheriff Shibell, accompanied by his deputies, have kept almost constantly upon the road, until it affords us great pleasure to state that success has crowned his efforts, and the robber, William Whitney Brazleton, was brought into Tucson a corpse Monday night last.

After the robbery of the stage going west, near Point of Mountains station, the Sheriff and his men visited the spot and took the trail of the robber's horse. It followed back to Tucson, and there lost on account of the severe fall of rain—but from a Mexican living south of town that a horse and man answering the description had been seen in that vicinity. Following up this trace of evidence they finally came upon the horse in the possession of David Nemitz, at his rancho, about one and a half miles south of Lee's Mill, which is about three miles from Tucson.

The next proceeding was to arrest Nemitz, which was done, and he was brought to town for examination. His story at the examination was that the horse was left at his place by a stranger, which was not satisfactory to the court, and he was bound over in the sum of $2,500. He was then placed in jail, where he was quietly visited and finally induced to reveal what proved to be facts. He was then let out of jail, a number of leading citizens going on his bond, and the plans for the capture of the robber arranged, Nemitz being promised protection from the citizens.

It was arranged that Nemitz should visit the robber, who was camping near Lee's Mill, and accordingly on Sunday night last he went out and remained over night, reporting here again on Monday.

Brazleton was very much enraged at the arrest of Nemitz for having the horse in his possession, and arranged to meet him again on Monday evening, at a point near the Guadalupe rancho, south of Lee's Mill. The signal of his approach was to be a cough, to be returned by Nemitz, when Brazleton would take of his large slouch hat and lay it upon a log that is in the road at that point. Nemitz was then to appear, bringing with him a saddle, bridle, overalls, pants and grub. These facts being revealed to the Sheriff, he deputized a posse, and with Nemitz started on Monday evening to meet the robber according to arrangement. Arriving at the spot, Nemitz left the party, who were then stationed at intervals on both sides of the road, and by darkness concealed from view. They had to wait about an hour, when the dark outlines of a man was seen approaching from the south, who came cautiously up to the log. He gave the cough, which was returned, and immediately placed his hat on the log. He then stooped over, as if looking down on the other side of the log, probably after the packages he expected to find there, when a gun loaded with buckshot was discharged, one barrel quickly after the other, and two other shots followed from the posse.

The first words of Brazleton were, "You son of a b—h," when he turned and fell upon his face, exclaiming, "I die brave! my God, I'll pray till I die!" then a gasp, and all was still.

The body was put in a wagon and brought to town and placed in the Court House. Here it was searched, and in the pockets were found a pair of ear-rings belonging to C. T. Etchell, which had been placed in the mail on the 8th inst., addressed to a party in the East; also a small gold watch and chain—on the watch were the letters "G A C," or "G M," the marking not being clear. His wearing apparel was sadly dilapidated. In two belts around his body were a hundred rounds of cartridges, and two six-shooters and a Remington rifle were a part of his outfit.

Brazleton was a man of herculean frame, full six feet high, and weighed 200 pounds; was 25 years of age, and in complexion a blend of a large, bright blue eye, peering over a clean-cut aquiline nose; heavy hair of a light color; regular and well formed chin, sparsely covered with whiskers of a yellow tinge. In fact, in build he was a model of strength and energy, which directed in a channel for good would have excelled even more than in the destructive profession in which he fell.

Thus ended the brief career of one of the most daring desperadoes that ever lived. He had participated in nine stage robberies in this Territory and New Mexico—three near Silver City, two in North Arizona, and four near Tucson. The most of this work he did alone.

He resided in Tucson for over a year, and was employed at Leatherwood's corral. He worked faithfully, was kind and courteous with all, and no one at that time would have taken him for the man he has proved himself to be.
